

Photography

Sunbaker: another day in the sun for Max Dupain's classic beach photograph

A print of one of the most celebrated photographs in Australian history, Max Dupain's Sunbaker, is expected to reach between $20,000 and $30,000 when it goes under the hammer at Mossgreen this month.

Thursday 9 June 2016 13.36 AEST

Shares

7

Save for later

Prints of Sunbaker, taken by the modernist photographer Max Dupain, have fetched up to $35,750 in the past. The one being auctioned by Mossgreen on 19 June is larger than most and is expected to attract considerable interest.

Topics Photography

Reuse this content

related content

New Order: an orchestrated special at Sydney Opera House - in pictures

Looking back at Age and Consent - in pictures

Bikinis and ballgowns: Australian fashion week 2016 - a photo essay

Sydney from a blimp: a bird's eye view of Australia's harbour city

Lens Between Us: couple look to each other to create unorthodox travel photographs

'All Australian cliches are true': Martin Parr talks beach life before Bondi show

Sun, surf and skin: Australian depictions of the beach - in pictures

The Photograph and Australia review - a superb study of national identity popular

across the guardian

in art and design

- 1 Dr Sarah Wollaston defects from Vote Leave to remain campaign 2 'Three black teenagers': anger as Google image search shows police mugshots 3 'Why I have finally taken off the Apple Watch for the last time' 4 Bernie Sanders' new slogan looks beyond nomination: 'The struggle continues' 5 MC-21: Russians hail new airliner as better than Boeing or Airbus

- 6 St Helena airport costing £285m of UK money is delayed over safety concerns 7 Lena Dunham and cast of Girls back Stanford sexual assault survivor 8 Amazon starts UK fresh food delivery 9 A California club bans DJs who use laptops ... but why?
10 Martin O'Neill's gaffe must trigger a wider debate on homophobia in football

election 2016

Guardian Live election special

Join our political duo Lenore Taylor and Katharine Murphy as they host an election panel including Tanya Plibersek, Trent Zimmerman and Cassandra Goldie

Book now

Find out more

back to top

Sign up to our daily email

facebook

uk jobs

information

twitter

all topics

contact us

advertising

all contributors

terms & conditions

masterclasses

solve technical issue

privacy policy

guardian labs

about us

cookie policy

subscribe

vacancies

securedrop